Senior Product Designer

+ Work experience

Product Designer - InPost UK, London

Nov 2022 - present

International parcel delivery and logistics technology company | Global Design Team
~5,000 UK employees / ~13,400 globally

- Led the design of the UK consumer mobile app from 0-to-1 and now own end-to-end product design across iOS and Android for 2M+ monthly active users, from discovery and research through prototyping, validation and delivery.
- Simplify complex logistics and operational journeys into intuitive mobile experiences, using research, usability testing and rapid iteration to shape product and roadmap decisions.
- Own and evolve the UK design system across mobile and web, creating reusable components, patterns and documentation while balancing consistency with platform-specific needs.
- Partner closely with Product and Engineering from early exploration through implementation, resolving design trade-offs and iterating through delivery rather than relying on handoff.
- Work across European markets to adapt shared journeys and design patterns while balancing local user, product and operational requirements.
- Earlier work spanned both B2C and B2B experiences, including business-facing web and account journeys, before the organisation grew into dedicated B2C and B2B teams.
- Use Claude Code, Codex and other AI tools to explore, prototype and accelerate design and development workflows.

UX Designer - Pixeled Eggs, London

Aug 2019 - Oct 2022

Small digital product & UX agency | fewer than 20 employees

- Designed end-to-end digital products for clients across healthcare, mobility, sustainability and emerging technology, combining UX research, interaction design and visual design.
- Turned complex business and user requirements into clear digital experiences through workshops, stakeholder interviews and usability testing.
- Created scalable design systems, reusable UI components and documentation to improve consistency and delivery.
- Worked across strategy, branding and product design, turning research insights into cohesive digital experiences and visual systems.
